World Aids day December 1 2012

The World Health Organization established World AIDS Day in 1988 to provide governments, national AIDS programs, faith organizations, community organizations and individuals with an opportunity to raise awareness and focus attention on the global AIDS epidemic.

We are living in the middle of an epidemic, but we're no longer having meaningful dialogue about it," Tulsa CARES' Executive Director Sharon Thoele says. "HIV is still infecting our youth; it's still not discriminating about who it infects; and there is still no cure. This year's reception is a way to open the door to this conversation in a way that is welcoming to everyone."

Happy Birthday!
Omar Cowen Nov 02

Prime Timers doing what they do best "Talk"

A farmer near Dubbo got pulled over by a Highway Patrol Officer for speeding. The officer started to lecture the farmer about his speeding, and in general began to throw his weight around to try to make the farmer feel uncomfortable. Finally, the officer got around to writing out the ticket. As he was doing that, he kept swatting at some flies that were buzzing around his head. The farmer said, "Having some problem with circle flies there, are ya?" The officer stopped writing the ticket and said, "Well yeah, if that's what they are. I never heard of circle flies." So the farmer says, "Well, circle flies are common on farms. See, they're called circle flies because they're almost always found circling around the back end of a horse." The officer says, "Oh," and goes back to writing the ticket. Then after a minute, he stops and says, "Are you trying to call me a horse's ass?" The farmer says, "Oh no, officer. I have too much respect for law enforcement and police officers to even think about calling you a horse's ass." The officer says, "Well that's a good thing," and goes back to writing the ticket. After a long pause, the farmer says, "Hard to fool them flies though".
